

PARCC Accessibility and Accommodations Overview for Massachusetts Educators

(Note: Additional information is available in the PARCC Accessibility Features and Accommodations Manual and appendices, available at www.parcconline.org/parcc-accessibility-features-and-accommodations-manual.)

BACKGROUND

The accessibility of PARCC tests has been enhanced by including

- a range of tools and supports in the computer test-delivery system for use by all students;
- corresponding accessibility features and accommodations, where available, for students taking paper-and-pencil PARCC tests; and
- test administration policies and procedures that allow a broad range of options for adapting the testing environment.

PARCC TEST ADMINISTRATION CONSIDERATIONS FOR ALL STUDENTS

Although most students can be tested in their regular classrooms according to the guidelines and schedule intended for all students, Table 1 below outlines the test administration considerations that may be provided to any student, including non-disabled students and ELLs, at the discretion of the principal (or designee) who determines a need to modify the testing environment for a particular student. These considerations may be provided regardless of whether the student is participating in PARCC computer- or paper-based testing. It is advisable (though not required) to continue to include these in the IEPs or 504 plans of students with disabilities. This table also lists the corresponding MCAS accommodation (with accommodation numbers in parentheses). For more information on MCAS accommodations, refer to the Requirements for the Participation of Students with Disabilities in MCAS, which is available at www.doe.mass.edu/mcas/participation/sped.pdf.

PARCC ACCESSIBILITY FEATURES FOR ALL STUDENTS

Table 2 below outlines

- the PARCC accessibility features available to all students participating in the computer-based PARCC tests;
- the corresponding accessibility feature, if available, for students taking paper-and-pencil PARCC tests; and
- the corresponding MCAS accommodation (and accommodation number) for comparison.

Many MCAS accommodations will now be available as onscreen tools on the computer-based PARCC tests, or incorporated into the accessible design of PARCC computer- and paper-based assessments. These accessibility features will be available to all students participating in PARCC, although some may need to be requested during the student data upload prior to testing.

DIFFERENCES BETWEEN PARCC AND MCAS FOR STUDENTS WITH DISABILITIES

For districts administering PARCC assessments in 2014-2015, IEP teams should consider the following differences between PARCC and MCAS when developing IEPs for the current school year. Most test accommodations that are allowed for MCAS are also allowed for PARCC, either as accessibility features for all students, test administration considerations for all students, or accommodations specifically for students with disabilities. A small number of accommodations allowed for MCAS are either not allowed for PARCC, or are administered differently on PARCC tests. In addition to several MCAS accommodations that are now available to all students, Table 3 below describes the important differences between MCAS and PARCC accessibility features, test administration considerations, and accommodations.

Table 3. Differences between PARCC and MCAS Accessibility Features, Accommodations, and Test Administration Policies

PARCC Accessibility Feature, Accommodation, or Test Administration Policy	MCAS Accommodation or Test Administration Policy (Accommodation number, if applicable)
Individualized graphic organizers, checklists, or reference sheets are not available on PARCC tests. Use of this MCAS accommodation on PARCC assessments will result in the invalidation of the student’s test for which it was used. (Note that all students are provided with the standard reference sheets and blank paper.)	Individualized Graphic Organizer, Checklist, or Reference Sheet, or Abacus (20)
PARCC tests are timed. Extended time (up to the end of the school day) to complete a test session is an accommodation available to students with disabilities and ELLs. Therefore, IEPs and 504 plans should list extended time as an accommodation, if the student will require it. For students doing computer-based testing, principals should plan for students using extended time to be in a separate setting.	MCAS tests are untimed for all students (up to one school day to complete a test session).
Paper-based tests may be administered as an accommodation, either to a student with a disability who is unable to use a computer, or an English learner with little or no prior experience or familiarity with technology.	All MCAS tests are administered using paper-based format.

Students with recently occurring injuries, illnesses, or disabilities may be provided accommodations on PARCC tests once the form for emergency accommodations has been completed and kept on file at the school. <sup>1</sup> (No 504 plan is necessary to receive an emergency accommodation on PARCC assessments)	Students with recently occurring injuries or disabilities must have a 504 plan created by the school before MCAS accommodations may be provided.
Additional accommodations available to ELLs , as outlined in Table 7	Use of word-to-word, bilingual dictionary in student’s native language for ELLs or former ELLs
Text-to-speech/read-aloud on the PARCC Mathematics test is an accessibility feature available to all students.	Test administrator may read aloud the Mathematics test only to a student with a disability per the IEP.

PARCC ACCOMMODATIONS FOR STUDENTS WITH DISABILITIES

Tables 4 through 6 show PARCC accommodations for students with disabilities grouped into three main categories: test presentation, test responses, and timing and scheduling of tests. For each table, the following is included:

- PARCC accommodations on the computer-based tests that are available to students with disabilities who have the accommodation listed in their IEP or 504 plan;
- comparable PARCC paper-based test accommodation (if available); and
- corresponding MCAS accommodation.

More information about accessibility features and accommodations on PARCC paper-based tests is available in Appendix A at www.parcconline.org/parcc-accessibility-features-and-accommodations-manual

PARCC ACCOMMODATIONS FOR ENGLISH LEARNERS

In addition to the test administration considerations (in Table 1) and accessibility features (in Table 2), English learners may be provided any of the following accommodations when the need has been determined by educators familiar with the student, and with the approval of the principal (or designee). For additional information, see pages 37-40 of the PARCC Accessibility Features and Accommodations Manual (Second Edition), available at www.parcconline.org/parcc-accessibility-features-and-accommodations-manual.

SPECIAL PARTICIPATION REQUIREMENTS FOR SELECTED GROUPS OF STUDENTS

A small number of students in selected groups will not participate in PARCC even though the district has elected to administer PARCC, according to the following participation requirements.

Table 8. Participation Requirements for Selected Groups of Students

Group of Students	Participation Requirements
Students with disabilities designated for participation in the MCAS Alternate Assessment (MCAS-Alt)	Students designated for alternate assessments will continue to participate in the MCAS-Alt, which is now fully aligned with the 2011 Massachusetts Curriculum Frameworks (incorporating the Common Core State Standards).
English learners in their first year of enrollment in a U.S. school (i.e., enrolled after the SIMS submission of March 1, 2014)	These students participate in PARCC or MCAS ELA/Literacy tests (according to the district’s selection) at the principal’s discretion (testing is optional).  These students must participate in PARCC or MCAS Mathematics (according to the district’s selection) and MCAS Science and Technology/Engineering tests (testing is required). The participation of grade 9 students in MCAS high school STE testing is optional.

STUDENT ACCOMMODATION REFUSAL

If a student refuses an accommodation that is included in an IEP or 504 plan, the school may wish to document the refusal using the optional Student Accommodation Refusal Form, available at www.parcconline.org/sites/parcc/files/Appendix%20H%20Student%20Accommodation%20Refusal%20Form.pdf. Regardless of whether this form is used or not, the school should always document the refusal in writing, and retain this information in the student's assessment record.

EMERGENCY ACCOMMODATION REQUEST

See Table 3 elsewhere in this document for information on the procedure for requesting an emergency accommodation for a student with a recently occurring illness, injury, or disability.

UNIQUE ACCOMMODATIONS REQUEST

If a student with a disability or an English learner requires an accommodation (i.e., a "unique accommodation") that is not listed in the PARCC Accessibility Features and Accommodations Manual, and that does not fundamentally change the test, or the construct being measured by the test, the school may request approval for use of the accommodation using the request form found in Appendix F: Unique Accommodation Request Form at www.parcconline.org/parcc-accessibility-features-and-accommodations-manual. If approved by the Massachusetts Department of Elementary and Secondary Education, the accommodation must be listed in the IEP or 504 plan of a student with a disability. To request approval of a unique accommodation, the completed form must be submitted to the Department at parcc@doe.mass.edu or by fax at 781-338-3630 at least two weeks prior to testing.
